A little everywhere

Not everybody studies best at a desk. Having a few extra spotlights and various kinds of chic storage means you can learn on the sofa, or even in bed.

Practical and personal at the same time. SVENSHULT shelf allows you to make creative patterns on the wall.

Boost your schoolwork with several good lamps, so light can be directed exactly where it's needed.

Sleep, study and socializing

If you study in a multi-use space, be sure to have plenty of storage to stow your desk essentials out of sight at the end of the day – so they don't distract too much when you unwind.

Room to study in a busy home

Set up a super personal study station by collecting all you need (and love) in open shelves that are up for the task. With a desk, chair and drawer for support, you don't even need a special room. Just take a seat and open your books.

Gaming 16 Gaming 17

Change your seat, change your game

It's the living area for everyone, but also someone's gaming nest. Use furniture that is kind to your body and pleasant to look at, such as this gently curved HATTEFJÄLL chair – built to outlast years of ups and downs.

Hardworking NISSAFORS cart has extra storage for all your drinks and snacks. Fits in the smallest of spaces and can be moved to wherever you need it.

No matter how big (or small) the purchase, we're happy to do the heavy lifting and arrange delivery to your home.

Gaming 18

Longing for some peace?

Annoying sounds from chitterchatter and action on TV, the distractions can be many. Rest in a pool of calm with sound absorbing panels, blackout roller blinds and enclosing textiles.

Adjust your blinds from the comfort of your sofa. The fabric blocks out all light from outside – perfect for gaming.

Ah, the sound of silence. This ODDLAUG panel gives ear-relief for open spaces in the home, where there's lots of activity.

A doorless gaming closet

Having a walk-in game station doesn't require a separate room. A set of curtains puts the bedroom wall – and its mix of storage, desk and computer – at your fingertips, or out of sight.

Which gamer are you?

Let lighting strings give a guiding glow or add to the electric mood, change the chair or adjust the table. Mark your gaming spot with simple things that make you feel the best.

Why not make the change to LEDs today? It'll brighten up the future for your wallet. And the planet.
